Meditorial Comments.

Emperor Nicholas has gone to the front with the Russian army.

Gen. Jean Rousseau, of the French cavalry, has died of his wounds.

Of course in the end Von Kluck will lose, but it must be admitted the the is putting up a game fight.

Secretary of State, Wm. J. Bryan, MOVED will speak in Evansville to-morrow night.

The Germans claim to have 240,-000 prisoners, enough to people a city as large as Louisville. The allies admit no such loss.

Essad Pasha is now presiding over the provisional government set up in Albania. It will soon be in order to ask who put the "sad" in Essad?

The province of Konia, in Asia Minor, has been visited by an earthquake and the victims are estimated at 2,500.

A Louisville woman, whose husband was killed by an automobile. has accepted $3,150 in full settlement. She wanted $30,000 for him, but scaled her price.

Congressman Ben Johnson refuses store; to sign the attendance slips devised by the sergeant-at-arms to ascertain the attendance of congressmen and Jim Burrus with having burglarized his salary is two months behind. He says he has been absent only one Thomas. day, but objects to the statement required under the new docking rule.

Brooks county, Georgia, has organized its farmers to return to the old-time smokehouse and to cure all meat raised in the county to be sold as bacon and not as pork. There is a demand everywhere for "country hams" and more counties should follow the example of the bacon county of the South,

The French soldiers were greatly surprised Sunday to see their British comrades after the long spell in the trenches retire to some distance in the rear and inflate several footballs and begin lively games. Some of the British battalions had lost a large proportion of their numbers in the severe battles of last week, but the zest of the men for the sport was unabated.

The white wig was very popular at Monte Carlo last winter, where it was worn for luncheon at Ciro's; for tea at the Hotel de Paris, for the Russian ballet at the Casino. It is now popular at Newport. Nothing could be prettier than a young girl's face framed in the soft white curls of these new white wigs. And when the eyes are large and dark and the complexion rosy the effect is a soft brilliance that is charming. Then, again, the white wig is popular with the woman whose hair is turning gray, anyway."

> Word Origins. "Take no thought for the morrow" is now understood in an entirely different monner from that in which it was intended when the King James version was prepared. Then the expression "to take thought" was unlversal as a synonym for anxious solicitude. Tabby, the name of a wellknown species of cat, was formerly atabl, which was a term used to design nate a peculiar pattern in the silks manufactured in Persia. The markings in the fur of the cat resemble the pattern in the silk, hence the double application of the name. Jovial once meant the type of character supposed to belong to all persons who were born when the planet Jupiter, or Jove, was in the ascendent. .They were supposed to possess more of the cheerful elements of character than others, and hence to partake of the benign qualities attributed to the Father of the Gods.

BOARD OF EDUCATION UPHELD

Supreme Court of North Dakota Puts Indorsement on Enforced Physical Examination.

A decision upholding health regulations laid down by a city board of education is made by the supreme Board of Education, involving the to bring to school a physical report based on an examination by a physician furnished by the board or at the option of the parents. It was conceded that the regulation had improved the health of the children and had prevented the outbreak in the prevalent in the city and had been in the schools in former years.

The court held that the regulation in question was not invalid as constituting an unwarrantable violation of a personal right, especially as it was not shown that the required examination by a physician would necessarily entail any exposure of the person or manipulation of the body such as would shock the sensibilities of a refined person. It was further expressly decided that a physical examination was not objectionable because likely to result in disease through "mental suggestion" of dis-

Probably it could be either according to circumstances; and I delight in Garfield's comment on the eyes-"cold gray to his enemies, but warm blue to his friends." Equally enthusiastic is Howard's denial of the charge of coldness and severity. "To me General Thomas' features never seemed cold. His smile of welcome was pleasant and most cordial. His words and acts drew toward him my whole heart, particularly when I went into battle under him. And this is the impression that I got most of Thomas as a battle leader, one of immense comfort. A lot of opportunities come at inportune times.

Mrs. Felt Like Crying.

Wallace, Va,-Mrs. Mary Vest. of this place says: "I hadn't been very well for three years, and at last was taken bad. I could not stand on my feet, I had such pains. I ached all over. I felt like crying all the time. Mother insisted on my trying Cardui. Now I feel well, and do nearly all my housework." No medicine for weak and ailing women, has been so successful as Cardui. It goes to the spot relieving pain and distress, and building up womanly strength, in a way that will surely please you. Only try it once. Advertisement, Fortunate Cripple Dog.

Generally when a dog or other animal meets with an accident someone shoots it in order to put it out of misery. There is a crippled dog in Vienna which, although it has had the misfortune to lose its hind limbs in a street accident, has yet been "patched up" so that it can run about the streets of the city. The dog's mistress, much attached to her pet, had a little cart made upon which the dog rests his body, and then, harnessed to the shafts of the vehicle, he is able to "take his walks abroad" by ights. Rent $200 a year. Phone legs in his little cart. He is quite a well-known figure in Vienna's streets. and many of the people have a kind word and a pat on the head ready for this most fortunate of unfortunate crippled animals.

How Huxley Chose a Name.

In a letter to Sir Michael Foster. Huxley tells him the derivation of the name of the house-now about to be put up for auction-which he built for himself at Eastbourne. "One is obliged to have names for houses here. Mine will be 'Hodeslea,' which is as near as can go to 'Hodeslia,' the poetical original shape of my very ugly name. There was a noble scion of the House of Huxley who, having burgled and done other wrong things (temp. Henry IV), asked for the benefit of clergy. I expect they gave it to him, not in the way he wanted, but in the way they would like to benefit a later member of the family. Between this gentleman and my grandfather there is unfortunately a complete blank, but I have none the less faith in him as my English Judges Confronted With Problem of Trying Twelve Hundred Similar Cases One by One.

The Gateshead (England) magisrates are confronted with a diffiult problem. Twelve hundred and eighteen miners summoned for laying idle the Heworth colliery over a minimum wage dispute have insisted on being tried separately, and, as they adhere to their demand, the bench must comply.

Sitting eight hours a day, and disposing of cases at the rate of one per half-hour, it may hope to get through its work in about twelve weeks' time, if it is lucky and no other cases require attention.

The comedy of the case was added to by the complaint of the prosecuting counsel that the men had magnified their offense by staying away from work that day; but the magistrates pointed out that it could hardly be said that men who were appearing at court to answer summonses taken out by the mine owners were guilty of a further offense by doing so.

In the end the whole of the cases | Hotel Latham were adjourned for six weeks in the hope that the parties would come to

GOOD SUBSTITUTE FOR STEEL

That Glass Is to Be the Coming Material, is the Opinion of an Eminent Scientist.

The iron-ore deposits of the world are being rapidly exhausted, and the time is not far distant when we will have to get along without iron, and steel. Before that day arrives some substitute for these valuable things will have to be found, and it has been suggested by a scientist familiar with the subject that the logical successor will be glass.

Glass can be made to meet nearly all the requirements of iron and steel, and with improved methods of manufacture will be a great deal cheaper. There is an abundant supply of the materials from which glass is made, and long before iron nearly so hopeless as they seem. You reaches the obsolete stage it is more than likely that glass will be one of its strongest competitors.

The chief fault with glass is its brittleness, but it is possible even now to produce a grade of glass which can stand a great deal of hard usage and serve many of the purposes for which iron is employed. The progress of invention is bound to evolve a quality of glass which will be as strong and durable as iron and transparent as well.

WRITING WAS UNDIGNIFIED.

The production of Lady Randolph Churchill's play, "The Bill," illustrates once more the change in the estimation of authors and authoresses. A century ago to be "literary" in public spelled social disaster. When Lady Scott, for instance, published her novel, "Trevelyan," 1833, it was remarked that "of course nobody from London would call on her now." This was a view typical of the period. Now even butlers write poems.-London Express.

stinate cow that plants herself across the highway and will not permit an automobile to pass is to stop and milk the cow, according to Carroll Horton of Okmulgee, Okla., who is visiting his father, former Supreme Court Justice Horton, here.

Young Horton was a member of an automobile party speeding toward Newfield when the road was blocked near that village by a large Jersey cow, which had sprawled across the road. The cow refused to heed either horn or claxonette, and not wishing to run into the ditch the automobile party stopped.

All efforts to get the Jersey out Dried Lima beans, 60c per gallon, of the way failed until Horton Country dried apples, 10c per alighted, called, "Here, bossy, here, bossy," took off his panama hat, and proceeded to milk the cow. When he had finished the milking the cow agreeably walked off the road and the party proceeded with a bountiful supply of milk.—Ithaca (N. Y.) Dispatch to New York Herald.

TO TAKE A SUMMER COLD

Recipe That Is Guaranteed Not to Fail Given for Those Who May Have So Far Escaped.

It is not always the easiest thing to catch a summer cold. It often takes time and thought and proper exertion. You must be patient. Above all, never give up hope. Just when you think you are not going to get one it will come along and seize

There are many recipes for catching a summer cold, which are doubtless familiar to the highly intelligent reader.. We shall not give them. In their place we shall simply present a few general directions.

The first requisite is to get thoroughly exhausted. To do this it is better to select some unusual thing. When you have indulged yourself in Wool-Burry, 10c to 17c; Clear Grease, 21c. medium, tub washed 23c to 30c; coarse, dingy, tubwashed when you have indulged yourself in this until you are tired out then eat as much as you can of strange food to which your stomach has heretofore been a stranger. This ought to bring on a summer cold within a reasonable time. If it doesn't it will be because you don't know enough to have one.-Life.

THE TWO HALVES.

The late Jacob A. Riis, author of "How the Other Half Lives," was greatly distressed by what he believed to be the immodesty of the 1914 fashions for women.

Mr. Riis, discussing these fashions with a woman fashion writer of New York, said one day:

"I love to visit the slums. There, some people declare, I find nothing but the Great Unwashed. I always tell such people that when I visit, on the other hand, the opera or the fashionable restaurants, I find nothing but the Great Undressed."

SUMMER COMFORT.

One need never be bothered with mosquitoes, gnats or flies out of doors if oil of lavender is used. It will positively keep away the winged! pests, and 25 cents' worth will last all summer. Touch the arms, face, neck and ankles above the low shoes with the moistened cork occasionally and not a mosquito, fly or gnat will approach.

PART OF THE MENAGERIE.

"I don't think that Mr. Eatington ever declines an invitation to dinner."

"Oh, no; he's a sort of social lion, seeking what he may devour."-Boston Transcript.

EASILY PROCURED.

"James, them Comeups have no more money than what we got, and they say we ain't got no prestige."

"Well, you go out tomorrow, Maria, and jest order all of it you want."

DEFINED.

"What is 'innate wisdom'?" "It's knowing all the little meannesses of your neighbor before the town gossip or a real estate deal puts you wise."-Judge.

BIG TREES.

"Some of those California redwoods are forty feet in diameter."

Clark's Big Market House

TATE have so many people to tell us that they are surprised to see such an enormous stock of China, Cut Glass, Ivory, Aluminum Ware, Granite Ware, Silver Ware etc., in a grocery store. Then we have others to tell us that it seems the Books and Stationery should be in a book store.

Answer to 1st Question.

When we opened up our big store it was with the intention of handling even larger varieties than we now handle. We are catering to thousands of people. Some forty thousand in Christian county and then something like 60 thousand in adjoining counties, making one hundred thousand people that come to our store to trade.

Answer to 2nd Question.

We look over the books 2 years ago and just ask the thousands of people we have sold to if they are satisfied. There never was such a hard time to get books and on account of the book dealers in some of the adjacent counties not handling them it has kept us rushing to fill orders, also the book companies have been behind in making them. It won't be but short time now until we can fill all orders as fast as they come in. We want to say also that we have never refused to exchange a book according to the law governing exchange.
